

MRS. HENRY OLIVER

The funeral of the late Mrs. Henry Oliver was held from her late residence, Highway 22, on Friday, January 13.

A very large number of friends gathered to pay tribute to one who was loved and honored for her kindness and generosity to others. Of her it can be truly said, "She hath done what she could," and much sympathy is expressed for the aged husband who has been bereaved of his companion of sixty years.

The service was conducted by Rev. A. J. Smale, of Strathroy United Church, assisted by Rev. J. Kilpatrick, and by special request of deceased the hymn, "Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break," was beautifully sung by Mrs. Gladys Miller, of Watford. Mrs. Oliver was very fond of flowers, and in death was surrounded by the blooms she loved so dearly.

Interment was made in Arkona cemetery, and the remains were borne to their last resting place by two sons, Charles and George Oliver, and four grandsons, Norman and Howard Wardell, Neil Patterson and Russell Oliver.

Flower-bearers were five granddaughters, Jean, Beatrice and Marie Oliver, Edna Patterson and Elsie Wardell.

Mrs. Oliver is survived by her husband, now in his 94th year, two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Wardell, of Adelaide, and Mrs. Mervin Patterson, of Metcalfe; and three sons, Charles and George, of Adelaide, and Eli, of Fairview, Alberta, who was unable to be present; also one brother, Freeman Hoskin, of Toronto. One son, Crawford, died in childhood.
