SAPPER G. L. BROWN

J. G. Brown, a retired merchant of Arkona, has received official information from Ottawa, announcing that his youngest son, Sapper Gordon Lamb Brown, was killed in action in France on November 6. When leaving for overseas he was attached to the 149th Lambton Battalion as sergeant, but on reaching England, he arranged to be transferred to the Canadian Engineers in order that he might serve with his brother, Fred R. Brown. It is believed that he was killed in the Mons sector.

He was born at Thedford in October, 1896. He attended Watford high school, and subsequently joined the staff of the Molsons Bank at Hamilton, where he was a member of the Centennial Methodist Church. He was one of Arkona's most prominent and popular young men. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brown; four brothers, Albert W. and John L., general merchants of Arkona; George N., of Toronto, inspector of Standard Bank, and Corp. Fred R. Brown, who for the past four months has been confined to a military hospital in England, suffering from wounds received in action—Advertiser, London, Ont., Nov. 21.
